The Jewish Studies Sequence Announces Scholarships for Summer Language Instruction

The scholarship will pay up to $1,000 for a summer instructional program in Modern Hebrew, Yiddish, or other languages relevant to Jewish Studies, but not taught at the Claremont Colleges.

Which students are eligible?

All CMC students.

Which language programs are eligible?

Preference will be given to in-person programs offered through universities or recognized organizations.

Examples of Hebrew programs

- Middlebury Language School
- Hebrew University
- Haifa University

Examples of Yiddish programs

- Tel Aviv University
- YIVO-Bard

How to apply?

Applications should include an explanation for how the language contributes to the student's academic program and a current transcript. Applications will be considered on a rolling basis, with approximately two awards being granted each year.
