

Tkach, Colleen

From: Inform
Subject: EM: Saturday Salon - How Should We Teach Race and Ethnicity in American High Schools?

From: Villegas, Alejandro

Greetings CMC,

The Open Academy and CLSA would like to invite you all to our upcoming Saturday Salon and dinner entitled "How Should We Teach Race and Ethnicity in American High Schools?" with José Gonzalez and Adam Seagrave.

Click here to register and find more information for the Salon. We will email you to confirm we have a spot for you and will provide you with more details. The salon is on Saturday, April 1st from 3 - 5 PM followed by a dinner at Walter's.

Dr. Gonzalez was featured in the documentary Precious Knowledge which explores the fight to save ethnic studies programs in Tucson, Arizona, and the impact of these programs on students' lives. Dr. Seagrave is a professor at Arizona State University who advocates for "inclusive" ethnic studies aimed to foster shared understanding among diverse students.

Saturday Salon: How Should We Teach Race and Ethnicity in American High Schools?

Join our Saturday Salon for a discussion on the teaching of ethnic studies. In recent years, there has been a growing discussion around incorporating ethnic studies into school curriculums across the country. However, there is still debate about how this should be done and what the goals of such education should be.

To answer these questions, The Open Academy and Chicano Latino Student Affairs (CLSA) invited José Gonzalez and Adam Seagrave. Dr. Gonzalez was featured in the documentary Precious Knowledge which explores the fight to save ethnic studies programs in Tucson, Arizona, and the impact of these programs on students' lives. Dr. Seagrave is a professor at Arizona State University who advocates for "inclusive" ethnic studies aimed to foster shared understanding among diverse students.

The salon will be April 1st and located in Kreske 321 from 3 - 5 PM on April 1st followed by a dinner at Walter's (Clarendon Village). We will reach out to students via email to confirm whether we have a spot for you at this event.

*Required

Saturday Salon: How Should We Teach Race and Ethnicity in American High Schools?

Join our Saturday Salon for a discussion on the teaching of ethnic studies. In recent years, there has been a growing discussion around incorporating ethnic studies into school curriculums across the country. However, there is still debate about how this should be done and what the goals of such education should be. To answer these questions, The Open Academy and Chicano Latino Student Affairs (CLSA) invited José Gonzalez and Adam Seagrave. Dr. Gonzalez was featured in the documentary Precious Knowledge which explores the fight to save ethnic studies programs in Tucson, Arizona, and the impact of these programs on students' lives. Dr. Seagrave is a professor at Arizona State University who advocates for "inclusive" ethnic studies aimed to foster shared understanding among diverse students. The salon will be

April 1st and located in Kravis 321 from 3 - 5 PM on April 1st followed by a dinner at Walter's (Claremont Village)

docs.google.com

?

?

The graphic features the CMC logo (CMC in red and yellow) and the text 'The Open Academy x CLSA Chicano Latino Student Affairs'. Below this is a large, stylized yellow and grey circular graphic containing two portrait photos of men: José Gonzalez on the left and Adam Seagrave on the right. The text 'Saturday Salon' is in bold at the top, followed by 'How Should We Teach Race and Ethnicity in American High Schools?'. Below that, it says 'Join us for a discussion and dinner with José Gonzalez and Adam Seagrave'. To the left, event details are listed: 'April 1st', 'Salon at 3-5 PM', 'Kravis 321', and 'Dinner at 5:30'. To the right is a QR code.

Saturday Salon

How Should We Teach Race and Ethnicity in American High Schools?

Join us for a discussion and dinner with
José Gonzalez and Adam Seagrave

April 1st
Salon at 3-5 PM
Kravis 321
Dinner at 5:30

Kind regards,
Alejandro

Alejandro Villegas
Open Academy Fellow
<https://www.cmc.edu/the-open-academy>
CMC The Open Academy