“Resist, Renew, Explore: Human Values in the Age of AI”

John Warner, author of Why They Can't Write, the “Just Visiting” column for Inside Higher Ed and the forthcoming How to Think About Writing in the Age of AI, will present “Resist, Renew, Explore: Human Values in the Age of AI.” Now that we have easy access to technology that produces text with unmatched speed and fluency, we’re questioning the role writing plays in school, work and society. Warner will explore the differences between “syntax generation” and writing as the experience of thinking, feeling and communicating, and how to empower students to engage with one of the most human things we do.

The lecture will be held in the auditorium of the R. Michael Shanahan Center for Teaching and Learning at Harvey Mudd College, located at 320 E. Foothill Blvd. in Claremont. Direct inquiries to stewardship@hmc.edu, or call at 909.607.1818.
