Presented by the Harvey Mudd President’s Scholars
Joseph B. Platt Campus Center, Green Room

Panel Discussion:

Mellody Hobson

Co-CEO and President of Ariel Investments

Ajit Singh

Partner at Artiman Ventures

Join us for an inspiring conversation featuring Ajit Singh, partner at Artiman Ventures, and Mellody Hobson, co-CEO and president of Ariel Investments, moderated by Harvey Mudd College President Harriet Nembhard. This dynamic panel will explore how entrepreneurship can drive meaningful social impact, with a focus on achieving the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals.

The discussion will delve into the nature of entrepreneurship for social good and what it takes to bring transformational change into practice. Panelists will share insights on how education, investing and innovation help create solutions, highlighting real-world examples of successful ventures tackling global challenges like poverty, racial inequality and climate change. The conversation will also explore how Harvey Mudd College can contribute to this space, rethinking approaches to learning, funding and accessing capital for ambitious, high-impact projects.

This engaging session will inspire bold visions and provide a deeper understanding of how entrepreneurship can serve as a powerful catalyst for building a sustainable and equitable future. Don't miss this opportunity to hear from leaders at the forefront of innovation and social impact.

Dinner and Dialogue:

Join us for an engaging evening of learning and connection at the Harvey Mudd President's Scholars Dinner and Dialogue program. This special event builds on the insights shared during the morning panel, "Entrepreneurship for Social Good," exploring how innovative thinking can drive meaningful social impact and advance the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals.

At dinner, Harvey Mudd students will bring the morning's themes to life by showcasing alumni who are driving change through entrepreneurial ventures for social good. This intimate gathering offers a unique opportunity to deepen your understanding of social entrepreneurship and connect with a community dedicated to making an impact.

Enjoy a thought-provoking celebration of the Harvey Mudd spirit of innovation and collaboration that inspires bold visions for a better world.
