Join us for an expert speaker panel where voices from the energy field come together to unpack one of today's most pressing challenges: the energy grid crisis. We'll explore what the energy grid crisis actually is, how the rapid rise of AI and data centers is straining our power supply, and how renewable energy is playing a role. In addition, we'll talk about what you can do about it.

This event is in promotion of our campus-wide Power Down Challenge, because change starts with awareness, and awareness starts here.
