

Tkach, Colleen

From: Inform
Subject: EM: NEW CMC Leads Podcast: President Hiram E. Chodosh

From: CMC Social Media

Real leadership often comes from the most unlikely places. President Chodosh has been collecting examples his whole life.

In this new episode of CMC Conversations, student host Parish Kanuga '26 sat down with President Hiram E. Chodosh for a conversation about what leadership actually looks like — not the title, not the authority, but the small acts that move people when no one is watching.

♥ Like the CMC housekeeping staff who, in the wake of a campus tragedy, left a card and a chocolate on every student's pillow. No one told them to. No one asked. President Chodosh calls it exactly what it was: leadership.

🌍 They talk about the question that has guided his work across theater, law, and higher education. About holding your own value system inside a professional world that has its own language and incentive structures. About the India mediation project that grew into something no visionary could have predicted.

And at the end, something personal. 🔍 President Chodosh reflects on closing 13 years at CMC — and what it feels like to face unfamiliar territory, or in his words, “a new block .”

This is the final episode in partnership with CMC Leads. See you at The Summit! 🍷

Watch or listen now:

https://open.spotify.com/episode/0vyfiaw95XRxRoHeT9QWJy?si=paBYu_rHSXekHdbcarmA4w

And if you haven't registered for The Summit yet: <https://www.cmc.edu/cmc-leads>

Claremont McKenna College

Strategic Communications & Marketing

400 North Claremont Blvd.

Claremont, CA 91711

909.607.2218

socialmedia@cmc.edu

www.cmc.edu

